RUBE ALLYN.

The entertainments given by Mr.
Rube Allyn in Saskatchewan Hall, were a good success, and were thoroughly enjoyed by a large number of citizens, many of whom attended the twenty-four entertainments. Mr. Allyn is a humorist and dramatic reader of a high order, and is destined to make his mark in the world.
Careful training, and close application as a student, together with natural abilities, have eminently fitted him for his difficult task. His recital of "The Dream of Eugene Aram" was cleverly done, and greeted with loud applause. His imitations of Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley were simply perfect, and produced a fund of amusement for the attentive audience. Departing from the humorous he recited H. G. Bell's difficult piece, "The Uncle," in which he gave evidence of being a clever tragedian. Mr. Allyn then gave a number of character sketches, excellently portrayed, consisting of the actions of a man shaving; a lady tying up her hair; a scientific contest between John L. Sullivan and a big Italian of New Orleans, in which the Italian was defeated; two persons reading notices; a country school teacher; and the Irish joker. His impersonations in various dialects caused much amusement. Mr.
Allyn is on his way to the coast, and we trust he will have the success he richly deserves.

LITERARY.

The Toronto Week, in its issue of the 22nd April, publishes the first weekly instalment of a new and brilliant Canadian novel, entitled "The Two Knapsacks," from the pen of "J. Cawdor Bell." It is a genuine summer story, well conceived and admirably told. The characters are typical of Canadian life; the scenes, incidents and conduct of the story will revive many a memory, and will impress the reader with the complete grasp of his subject, the thorough knowledge of Canadian life and customs, the wide culture, the moving humor and the real story-telling power possessed by this new Canadian author. We venture to prophesy for the clever author of this bright, humorous and distinctively Canadian work a very successful future. In the same number appears another feature which will be welcomed by those readers who are especially interested in literature and literature. Under an appropriate heading is inserted the first of a series of fortnightly contributions on contemporary writers and writing. It is the aim of these contributions to be at once impartial, critical and interesting.

The first literary journal of Canada invites and should receive the generous support of all classes of Canadians.

LOSSES BY THE STORM.

The Lethbridge News says: The storm of last week was the hardest on stock of any since 1886-7, and the loss will not be fully known until after the spring round-up. Reports from McLeod and Pincher Creek state that a large number of cattle were snowed under, having got under cutbanks and the snow drifted over them in some cases completely covering them. The cowboys were busy last week pulling out all those which were still alive, but they state that a great number had succumbed. On the north side of the river they drifted over cutbanks, and we understand numbers of them lie dead at the bottom while numbers of calves are running on the prairie without mothers. The storm was nearly as bad on horses as on cattle, and in the immediate vicinity of Lethbridge quite a number of horses succumbed to it. M. N. Walwork is out about thirty head, a number of which have been found dead. Mr. A. J. Whitney found six of his dead in one bunch and the rest he has not seen yet, while several of the freighters have lost one and two each.
Altogether the loss will amount to thousands of dollars, as we understand the storm extended over the whole range of country.

London, May 9.—In conversation with a reporter, Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian high commissioner to England, expressed confidence that Lord Salisbury intends to give effect to the desire of Canada for denunciation of the Belgium and German traitors, despite the tenor of the recent dispatch of Lord Knutsford, colonial secretary, to the contrary. Lord Salisbury, Sir Charles said, proposes to place India and all British colonies on an equal footing.

Berlin, May 9.—The Frankfort Rothechild's have learned that their absconding cashier, Jaeger, who robbed them of about two million marks, sailed on a vessel which is due to arrive in Colombo, the chief seaport of Ceylon, to-day. The British consul there has been cabled to place Jaeger under arrest upon his arrival.

Ottawa, May 9.—During April the Dominion debt was reduced $878,000.
The revenue for April was $3,168,000 against $3,127,000 for April last year.
The revenue for the current fiscal year has been $29,900,000 against $31,300,000 for the corresponding ten months last year. The expenditure for April was $2,500,000 against $2,400,000 in April last year. The expenditure on capital account for April was $2,670,000 against $3,000,000 in April last year. The expenditure on consolidated account was $2,300,000 against $2,500,000 in April last year. The expenditure for the fiscal year has been $25,600,000 against $25-300,000 for ten months last year.

CANADA AND THE STATES

With its customary force and clearness the Hamilton Spectator shows how little ground the people and press of the United States have for feeling displeased at the Canadian Parliament's declaration in favor of preferential trade with Great Britain. The trade relations existing between Canada and the United States cannot fairly be set down as this country's making, and if there is any thing unsatisfactory to the republic in present conditions, it is the Washington politicians who must shoulder the responsibility. This country has repeatedly sought the commercial favors of the United States, and has as often been refused, so that the Canadian resolution to seek closer trade with Great Britain has been helped on by the freezing out process inaugurated at Washington in 1866, and even before that date. If all the facts could be fairly placed before the people of the United States they would be the first to acknowledge the unfairness which has characterized United States treatment of Canada. Hardly had the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854 been in force when complaints began to be made that the Canadian duties on manufactured goods had been advanced. So they had, but it was entirely for revenue purposes and in violation of neither the letter nor the spirit of the Treaty. The United States had increased their tariff in 1846, and, by the changes made in 1857, the average of ad valorem duties enforced against Canadian goods was about 21 per cent, while, according to the admissions of the Americans themselves, the Canadian average was only 16 per cent. The Americans had much the best of the bargain, and Canada was scrupulously careful to observe the terms of the Treaty. But what did our neighbors, or rather our neighbors' politicians proceed to do? They began a nagging policy in order to diminish as far as possible the benefits to Canada of the Treaty. They set up heavy consular fees for proof of origin, and it was only after two years' repeated negotiation that they were abrogated and the former state of things restored. In the article of timber and lumber which was on the Treaty list for free interchange between the two countries, the United States subjected to duty all planks and boards either wholly or partly planed or tongued and grooved, thus giving the most restricted meaning to the words of the Treaty—"manufactured in whole or in part." These are instances of the treatment meted out to Canada.

When the Treaty was finally abrogated in 1866 by the States—not on commercial grounds, but for sentimental reasons—Canada tried hard to have it renewed. For years afterwards these efforts were kept up, and so sincerely did the Conservative statesmen of the time endeavor to restore closer relations between the two countries that the Grit leaders charged—and even now repeat the slander at intervals—that we offered practically to incorporate Canada commercially in the Union, so liberal were the terms offered by the Government of Sir John Macdonald. There is no truth in the allegation, but it is evidence that our leaders were honestly striving to secure reciprocity. They have striven both Grit and Conservative Governments—with equal sincerity since, but have met nothing but repulses, and it is the most natural thing in the world that Canada should now turn to Great Britain and make overtures, which, if successful, will be fraught with importance to this country as well as to the United States. Preferential duties favoring Canadian grain would wake up the Western States farmer, who is badly enough off as it is, and who could not bear the additional blow. Every practical man feels sure that the United States farmer would have to pay the duty to get his wheat into the British market, so that the British consumer would not suffer. But we feel, like the Spectator, that the question is not one which we in Canada can positively decide. It is for the British people to say. But Canada has done right in declaring that it is ready to make a bargain whenever the Motherland is.

THE OUTLOOK PROMISING.

That Canada's offer to discriminate in favor of the Motherland has attracted much attention in England is natural. The longer the people there reflect upon the proposition the more it will commend itself to them. If the other colonies could be got to join in the invitation the policy of preferential duties would do much to shake the stronghold of free trade. It is quite probable that the other British countries will co-operate when the time comes, and Colonel Vincent, who stirred Canada up, can undertake a similar expedition to Australia and South Africa. The other colonies, like Canada, are cultivating the British market and would probably be as ready to make good terms for a preference therein as Canada has shown herself to be. That there are obstacles in the way no one denies, the chief among them being the British unpreparedness to put a duty on food products, but, as Mr. Burton of Toronto, states, there is a feeling in England that something ought to be done. The conference of delegates of the Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire next month will crystallize public sentiment to some extent, and when the general election is over, some practical test of the feasibility of the policy can be instituted. Until then there is every reason to cherish hope.

We are told by the London daily News that 120 selected emigrants left Liverpool on April 15 for Canada under the auspices of the Self Help Emigration Society. "They were for the most part people under 30 years of age, healthy-looking young men, and comely women and girls; respectfully dressed, and of good physique." This statement affords a reply to some few grumblers about the style of the emigration which is coming to our shores. We are undeniably getting the best of those who migrate from their old homes to form new ones upon this side of the sea.

R. Backley held a very successful auction sale at Woodman's livery stable on Wednesday last. On Wednesday next he will sell the houses, fences and other property of the Argyle curling rink on the premises immediately east of the H. B. Co.'s east end store.

Mr. E. G. Woodward, representing the Regina Leader, left for Regina Monday morning. Mr. Woodward was here in the interests of the paper he represents, and informed us that he had secured a large number of new subscriptions for the Leader.

A meeting of the members of the Prince Albert Cricket Club will be held at Sproat's club rooms on Friday evening next at 7:30 o'clock. A good attendance of those interested in the good old game is wanted. A match for the Queen's birthday between the town and Police clubs is spoken of.

The charter for Saskatchewan Court I.O.F. has been received by the Court Deputy, Bro. J. Courtney. It is a beautifully designed and illuminated piece of work, and well worth seeing. The certificates of insurance for each member are equally handsome. They can be seen at Mr. Courtney's furniture showrooms.

We understand that the children of the High and Public Schools of Prince Albert are going to give a grand entertainment on the evening of May 24th, in celebration of Her Majesty's birthday, consisting of games, choruses, recitations, songs, physical training exercises, and, concluding with a grand musical drill parade under the direction of Constable Case of the N.W.M.P. Programmes will be issued later on. The proceeds will be in aid of the school gymnasium.

The renowned temperance lecturer, Joe Hess, whose services have been secured by the temperance people of the town, will arrive here on Saturday evening next. Mr. Hess will conduct services in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath at 10 o'clock a.m., 4 and 7 p.m. Mr. Hess will also lecture every evening during next week, commencing at eight o'clock, in the same place, which has been kindly granted by the managers of the church. The people of Prince Albert should not miss this opportunity of hearing one of the greatest temperance lecturers of the age. Crowded houses greet him wherever he goes. Don't fail to hear him.
